"DRAWN INTO THE LIFE OF GOD"

Beloved Disciples of Christ,

Greetings of peace, love, joy, and hope!

Paragraph One of the Catechism of the Catholic Church reminds us of something astonishingly beautiful: God, infinitely perfect, lacking nothing, created us out of sheer goodness so that we might share in His own blessed life. At every moment, in every corner of the world, God draws close to the human heart. He calls us to seek Him, to know Him, and to love Him with all our strength. And even though sin scatters and divides the human family, God gathers us back into unity through the Church. In the fullness of time, He sent His Son, our Redeemer, so that in the Holy Spirit we might become His adopted children and heirs to eternal life.

This truth sets the tone for our celebration of the Most Holy Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The Trinity is a mystery, yes, but not a distant one. We know who God is because Jesus Christ has revealed the Father's heart to us. Through Him, we learn to live purposefully in this world and to embrace the eternal life He came to give.

In a time like ours, when the world feels noisy, divided, and often overwhelmed by fear, this truth is even more urgent. God has given us the precious gift of freedom. Each day, we choose what shapes our hearts: the passing promises of the world or the enduring love of God. In this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus speaks plainly: "Whoever believes in Him will not be condemned." These are not words of threat but of invitation, an invitation to trust the One who came not to condemn the world but to save it.

Throughout history, humanity has often turned to worldly power, comfort, or self-interest. We see the same temptations today: to rely on ourselves alone, to chase what cannot satisfy, or to let fear and division guide our choices. Yet God continues to call us, patiently and persistently, to seek Him, to know Him, and to love Him.

As we celebrate this great feast, we are invited once again to recognize the vastness of God's work in our lives. The Trinity is not an abstract doctrine; it is the very life of God, poured out for us. In a world hungry for meaning, stability, and peace, the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit offer us unconditional, faithful, and eternal love.

Our response, then, is simple and profound: to turn our hearts toward Him in gratitude. Like Daniel, we proclaim, "Glory and praise forever." And we do so not only with our words but also with lives that reflect the love of the God who created us, redeemed us, and dwells within us.

Your Friend in the Jesus,

Fr. Pascual Abaya IV

God so loved the world that he gave his only Son

SCRIPTURE

In Paul's second letter to the Corinthians, he gives instructions: rejoice, mend your ways, encourage one another, agree, live in peace, greet one another with a holy kiss. He follows this with a Trinitarian blessing for the community, one we use in our eucharistic celebrations. The blessing focuses on the gifts that the Trinity offers believers. Those gifts will enable them to live more fully in faithful relationships with one another, as Paul indicates in his instructions.

Paul begins his prayer asking for "the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ." In Paul's writing, the Lord's grace is salvation. Naming Christ first indicates that it is through him that we have come to know God, especially the revelation of God's love expressed through Jesus. The third part of the blessing asks for companionship with the Holy Spirit so the community may have the experience of knowing God's Spirit. Our God is a mysterious yet dynamic one who draws us more fully into relationship with him and one another.

SHARING FAITH

What instructions would you add to Paul's, expressing how people in loving relationships are called to act with one another?

Humanity is made in God's image. How do we reflect a relational God?

God is in relationship with his us. What are we, his people, called to do in response?

LIVING THE LITURGY

Paul's instructions to his community clearly call for action on the part of the members of the community. How are you called to do to respond to Paul's words in your parish, neighborhood, office, or personal life? How will you respond?

This weekend, the United States celebrates Father's Day. What does your experience with the loving fathers who you know reveal to you about God the Father as a person of the Trinity?

With a friend or group, talk about what you have learned from the loving relationships you have experienced in your life. What do they teach you about the loving relationship God has with his people? How does it impact our summons to be in loving relationships with one other?

REFLECTION

Brothers and sisters, rejoice. Mend your ways, encourage one another, agree with one another, live in peace, and the God of love and peace will be with you (2Corinthians13:11).

ICSC STEWARDSHIP PRAYER (MAY)

Gracious and Loving God,

When your Spirit descended upon the apostles at Pentecost, they spoke the languages of those who came to hear their testimony.

They proclaimed a new covenant in Christ Jesus, sanctified by his blood, bound by the Holy Spirit, and sealed in the waters of Baptism.

We give you thanks and praise for releasing your Spirit upon us; and in these anxious times pray that it will break through the many barriers that divide people.

Let your Spirit open our eyes as a communion of faith to your ongoing presence among us, so we can recognize you when we serve one another.

Let your Spirit open our minds so that we may gain the wisdom to work together to show love for our neighbors, and unite our talents to build a better, safer world.

And let your Spirit open our hearts so that together we can live more fully in Christ, shine his light of mercy and hope and prepare for the day of his glorious return.

We pray this through your son,
Jesus Christ
who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit,
God forever and ever.

Amen.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR GENEROSITY!
